One of the best ways to increase the survival rate among breast cancer patients is to catch the cancer in the early stages of development. Our goal for the Kellie Watts-Goodell Memorial Barrel Race is to increase the awareness of breast cancer and to increase scholarship funds for local youth. Also a portion of the proceeds will be donated to Breast Cancer Research. While Kellie was alive she was a true cowgirl. Despite her cancer treatments, Kellie showed the courage and determination to pursue her dreams of barrel racing. In her selfless love of the sport, she let others ride her horse(Missy) in the last several months of her life, so she could still be involved in barrel racing with her son. Kellie loved the western way of life and was involved in riding and showing since the age of 4. Her real love came from the lasting friends she met on the road and that made such an impact on her life. Through riding horses, Kellie learned many values that she was able to pass on to her son Dylan.

It is our goal to make this barrel race one of the biggest in this area, so we can spread the word about Breast Cancer Awareness. Breast Cancer can happen to your daughter, mother, friend, sister, or even the barrel racer sitting beside you.

We hope you will join us at this race in helping us raise awareness about Breast Cancer.
